

EFFORT TO STABILIZE DOLLAR MEETS WITH FAILURE, IS REPORT

American Delegates Appear
Not to Be Interested in Currency Now

IS UP TO THE PRESIDENT

Conference Lasting
Two Hours

(By International News Service)

GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM, LONDON, England, June 29.—An Anglo-French drive to compel immediate stabilization of the dollar which was timed to coincide with Assistant Secretary of State Moley's arrival appeared to have failed today.

The American delegates to the World Economic Conference and their experts held a prolonged session this forenoon, after which it was authoritatively stated the American delegation was not concerned with de facto currency stabilization, that matter being strictly up to President Roosevelt and the Central banks. After the session ended, one of the conferees told International News Service it had been definitely decided there would be no stabilization now or in the near future.

It was significant, however, that Professor O. N. W. Sprague, and James Warburg, American financial advisers, participated in the meeting. When it broke up after nearly two hours there was a further session between Secretary of State Hull, James M. Cox, Sprague, Warburg and Moley.

It was neither confirmed nor denied that the currency experts are drawing up another stabilization proposal for transmission to President Roosevelt similar to the one he rejected ten days ago.

The American delegates apparently are solidly committed to the President's formula of not wanting to tie the dollar to the pound and franc, so long as rising price levels are creating better times in America.

The Anglo-French argument that this American "prosperity" is artificial rather than real, has fallen on deaf ears as far as the conference delegates are concerned.

Surprise Local Couple At Buffet Supper and Dance

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Powell, Pine Grove, surprised them last evening at a buffet supper and dance at Penn Valley Farm. The guests gathered before the arrival of the honored ones, and the orchestra heralded their coming with "Lohengrin's Wedding March." BREAKS NECK IN DIVE

Quakertown, June 29.—Harvey O. Pluck, 23, a member of the faculty of the Trumbauersville public school, today was in a critical condition with a broken neck, suffered when he struck a submerged rock while diving at Hinkle's Dam, near here, last night.

Pluck and his wife today were to have celebrated their first anniversary of their marriage at the home of the husband's parents, in Quakertown, but physicians at the community hospital said Pluck had but a slight chance to recover.

BOMB DAMAGES BUILDINGS

Scranton, June 29.—A dynamite bomb, believed the work of disgruntled employees, rocked the home of Louis Sanner today, hurling the occupants from their beds, and damaged half a dozen nearby buildings, including the Myrtle Street M. E. Church. No one was injured. Sanner is division superintendent of the Pittston Company, a large mining firm. Mr. and Mrs. Sanner, two of their children, and Mrs. E. J. Cullen, of Wilkesburg, were asleep on the second floor when the blast let go, and they were hurled from their beds.

SEEK CONGRESSIONAL CONTROL

Selinsgrove, June 29.—Everett Sanders, national Republican chairman, today called upon the Republican party to unite all factions in an effort to wrest majority control of Congress from the Democrats in 1934, and demanded that brakes be applied to bipartisan, unquestioning acquiescence in the aims of the present administration.

DROP IN PRICE OF P. R. R. COMMUTATION TICKET

New Types of Tickets in Suburban Areas Will Save
10 to 11 Percent

NEW RATES ARE FILED

An estimated saving of between 10 and 11 per cent in their monthly commutation ticket costs are promised commuters who use the Pennsylvania Railroad. The lower rates are incorporated in new rates filed yesterday with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington by both the P. R. R. and Reading Company.

The new rates do not mean a reduction in the cost per trip to the commuter, but bring about a saving through the use of 50-trip instead of 60-trip tickets.

For example, a 60-trip ticket to Parkersburg now costs $21.33, while the new 50-trip ticket will cost five-sixths of the 60-trip price, plus 7 per cent, or $19.05.

The 50-trip ticket, which has been called "experimental," was evolved in answer to a demand by commuters for a smaller outlay of funds for the commutation privilege.

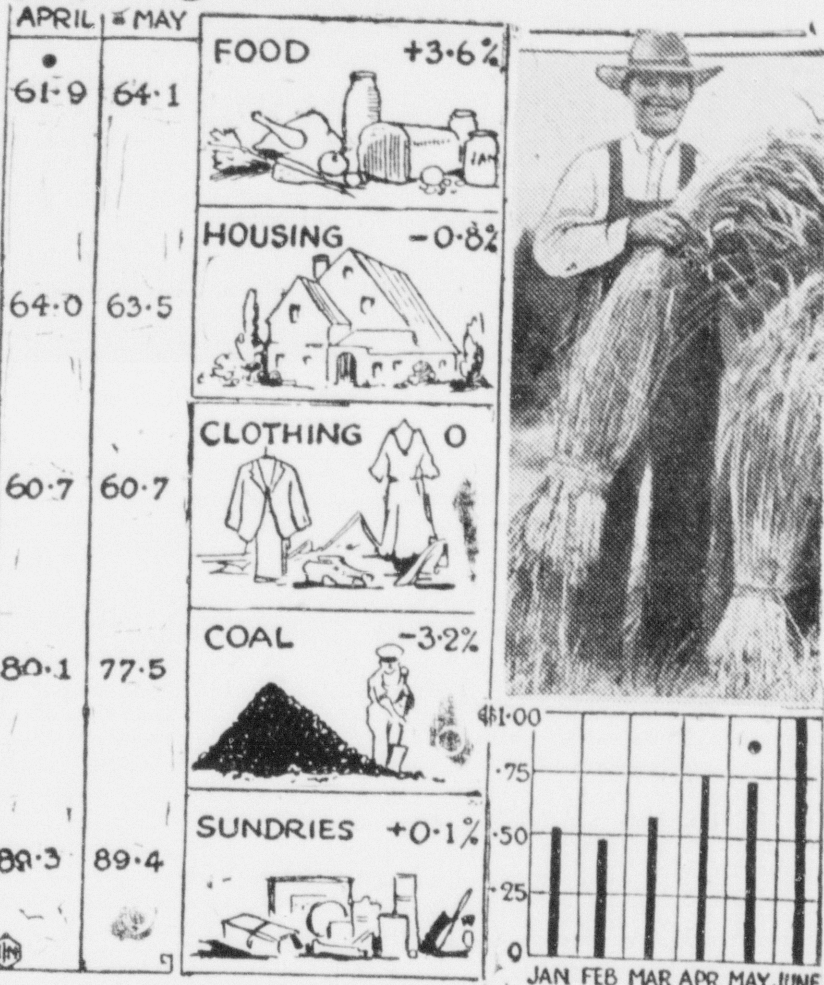

Both railroads revealed that numerous complaints had been made that part of the 60-trip ticket went unused although it had to be paid for and was unredeemable.

The Pennsylvania Railroad also included in its new schedule the proposal to substitute an unlimited suburban "trip ticket," good from Monday morning to the following Sunday night, for its present 12-ride weekly ticket. The price is to remain the same.

The railroads also propose to substitute a 25-trip, three-month ticket for the present 50-trip, six month ticket. The cost will be exactly half.

The suburban territory extends to Parkersburg, Pa., Newark, Del., and Oxford, Md. It goes as far as Pottstown and Trenton. From Camden the suburban territory extends to Bordentown, Brownsville, Egg Harbor, Millville, Pennsgrove, Richland, Bridge-town and Salem.

Living Costs Rise with Wheat

While the farmer is smiling over the rising price of wheat (diagram, lower right) after four long years of less than production costs, the city dweller is concerned about rising living costs. Figures just released are shown in the above chart and show May living costs increased more than 8 per cent over April. Compared with 1923 boom prices (100 per cent of chart figures) the cost of living is still considerably lower than ten years ago. Official Washington is driving for wage increases to keep pace with rising commodity prices.

BATTLE TO THE SCORE IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE GAME

St. Ann's and Independents
Each Gain Four Runs
In Fray

FINAL SCORE 4 TO 4

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Schedule for Tonight
DAMP WASH at EDGELY

St. Ann's A. A. and the Independents are up to their old tricks again. For the second time this season the two nines battled to a tie score. Last night's fray ended 4-4. Every season isn't completed unless these two clubs battle to at least two deadlocks. Earlier this year the clubs deadlocked at five-all.

Poor fielding and poor baserunning cost St. Ann's a victory last night. Time and time again opportunity presented itself to put the Saints in a scoring position to score the winning tally but the runner was always nabbed on trying to steal or advance the bases.

"Jake" Tranotti hurled the last three innings for the Indies and it was his mistake which caused the Saints to deadlock the score. In the sixth with Delist on base, Tranotti was given instructions to pass Juno and work on DiBlassio but Tranotti grooved one for the batter and it left straight into left field for a single to score DeRisi.

"Charlie" Whyno did the pitching for St. Ann's team and received several bad breaks. Hits that should have been caught by outfielders dropped safely for singles or doubles. He fanned eight batters.

The Indies scored a run in the first. Tosti was passed and stole second. Stallone was thrown out, Whyno to Polo to DeRisi. Lasprella hit to Polo whose throw to the plate was too late to get Tosti. Antonelli fled out and Avela forced Lasprella.

Two more went to the Sicilian club in the second. Tranotti hit the pitcher and was out. Stallone's fly dropped into left field for a double. Tullio's hit was misjudged by Fields for a triple, scoring Stallone. Tullio scored.

Chevalier Charming As A Bachelor Father In Film

Here's "A Bedtime Story" that will keep you awake! It's Maurice Chevalier's latest Paramount picture by that name which opens tonight at the Grand Theatre, for two nights. A year-old baby shares honors with the gay Parisian star in a film that's dazzling entertainment from its charming opening through its romantic close-up.

The child—"Monsieur Bab-ee"—to you—won the right to play the role in a competition that included practically every infant in California, and he shows why as he gurgles his way to your heart. Edward Everett Horton, who did such a swell job in Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise," shares comedy honors with Chevalier, in the role of the valet, Helen Twelvethrees, celebrating her return to the screen, has the kissable role of the baby's nurse, while such glamorous femmes as Adrienne Ames and Gertrude Michael give Chevalier—and you—plenty of allurements.

Here's a Chevalier who lives up to all his old traditions of rollicking fun, glorious songs and beautiful women. And here's something new in "Monsieur Bab-ee," the cute kid who changes Chevalier from a man-about-town to a gloating, bedtime-story-telling papa.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO DRAFT CODE TOMORROW

Meeting to Be Held in Harrisburg to Discuss the Recovery Act

"BIG" MEN TO ATTEND

HARRISBURG, June 29.—(INS)—Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, a meeting of retail merchants from all parts of Pennsylvania will be held tomorrow in Harrisburg when the proposed code of fair competition will be explained.

A special committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association drafted the code, which is proposed to govern the retail distribution of commodities under the National Industrial Recovery Act recently passed by Congress. William H. Hager, Lancaster merchant who served on the special committee, will explain the code's provisions.

Other leading Pennsylvania retailers, including Charles H. Bear, Jr., York department store head, and S. H. Heckman, Johnstown department store executive, both of whom served in an advisory capacity in the drafting of the code, also will speak. Representatives from the various specialty retail organizations will likewise appear upon the program.

The principal provisions of the code with which the retailers will be concerned are:

(A) To provide retail store employees with the right to bargain collectively.

(B) To set up minimum wage standards and maximum working hours.

(C) To control unfair price competition among retailers, to insure that labor cost shall be partially covered in retail prices and thus protect wage standards.

(D) To regulate advertising and underselling claims so as to eliminate unfair and destructive competitive methods.

(E) To provide a practical method of administering the code in local trading areas.

Similar retail trade bodies throughout the nation are now meeting to consider the proposed code, and if it is agreed to by the majority it will then be offered to General Hugh Johnson, administrator of the national industrial recovery act, for government approval. If subsequently approved by the government, the code will then be made mandatory and violations will be dealt with in summary fashion.

Should the code, or a satisfactory substitute fail to be adopted by the majority of retailers, the federal act permits the industrial recovery administration board to impose its own regulations governing retail competitive practices.

Nine Win Prizes at The Radio Party of P. O. of A.

The P. O. of A. Lodge held a radio party last evening in the lodge room, Radcliffe street. Prizes were awarded to: Miss Alice Booz, Nelson Simons, Mrs. Louis Townsend, Mrs. John Simons, Mrs. Reba Moss, Mrs. Mary Cahoon, Mrs. A. G. Britton, Mrs. Vance Betz and Mrs. Warren Thompson.

HIGHWAY PATROLMAN GIVES COUPLE "BREAK"

Later Acts As Best Man At Wedding of Pair in Doylestown

NERVOUS WHEN NABBED

When Sergeant Albert A. Discavage, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Highway Patrol, stopped a Philadelphia couple at Edison, south of here, for a minor automobile law violation yesterday, he gave them a break when they started to shake and told him they were on their way to Doylestown to get married.

"Well, I'll be lenient with you if you are telling the truth about what you are going to do, otherwise I'll have to turn you over to the justice for prosecution," the big six-foot officer told the couple.

"We will prove it," said Erich Seelow, 32, of 1949 East Tioga street, Philadelphia, a restaurant proprietor, who was accompanied by Miss Louise Rich, 28, a clerk, of the same address. "If you will come along and be best man, will that convince you?" Seelow asked.

Sergeant Discavage agreed and escorted the couple to the Bucks County Court House where they obtained a marriage license and were later married by Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack at his office here with the officer as the best man.

Seelow had been stopped and questioned concerning a minor violation.

"Good luck," Sergeant Discavage wished the departing couple. "It would be tough to start out on your wedding trip with a fine."

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle Dies; Screen Comedian

NEW YORK, June 29.—(INS)—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, the 399-pound film comedian whose good natured smile once won for him one of the greatest fortunes of the screen and who was making a "comeback" after twelve years of exile from the films, died suddenly in his hotel apartment early today. Death was attributed to a heart ailment. He was 46 years old.

Arbuckle was at the height of his popularity twelve years ago and had an income that ran into hundreds of thousands annually, when the death of a girl following a party, made him the storm center of a controversy that shook the movie industry itself.

It was the Arbuckle case that brought Will Hays into the movies as "Czar."

Arbuckle completed a picture only yesterday. He made a few last shots at the Astoria studios then accompanied by his wife, the former Addie McPhail, motion picture actress whom he married a year ago, he motored back to his New York hotel.

Early this morning Mrs. Arbuckle was awakened by groans. She found Arbuckle unconscious. Dr. Kenneth Hoffman, hotel physician, summoned hastily, examined him and broke the news to her that Fatty's fight to re-establish himself with the movie-going public of the world was over.

In the war years, and just after, only one movie comedian exceeded Arbuckle in popularity, and that was Charlie Chaplin.

Arbuckle was a graduate of the Mack Sennett comedies where he played with Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Chester Conklin and many others who were famous then but are now forgotten. Arbuckle had only to turn his slow smile on the screen to get a laugh. He became a star immediately.

FIND MAN'S BODY FLOATING IN CISTERN NEAR BUCKINGHAM

Foul Play May Have Caused the Death of Charles
Kentopp, Farmer

NOW PROBING THE CASE

Neck Was Broken, Coroner's
Post Mortem Examination
Shows

The body of Charles Kentopp, 45, found floating in six feet of water in an abandoned 12-foot cistern in the rear of a barn on the farm of Arthur Morris, Buckingham township, three miles east of here, was identified late yesterday by a brother, Frank Kentopp.

Kentopp, brother of Albert Kentopp, a local contractor, has been missing from his home on Stump Road since June 13. The body was found by Herbert Smith, 15, a farm hand on the Morris farm, who notified State Police here.

Dr. John J. Sweeney, coroner of Bucks County, posted the body and found that Kentopp had a broken neck. He was unable to state whether Kentopp, the farmer, had met with any foul play.

Mrs. Mary Kentopp, mother of the drowned man, declared to police that she believed that her son was thrown into the cistern but could give the officers no clues.

Corporal W. Paul Snyder and Trooper George Sauer, of the State Police are conducting an investigation.

The cistern on the Morris farm was abandoned as a water supply many months ago and weeds that surrounded it had grown to a height of several feet. The Morris farm is about two miles from the Kentopp place.

"Sarobia Barn Theatre" To Open Its Third Season

The Sarobia Barn Theatre will open its third summer season on the evenings of June 30th and July 1st with a program of three one-act plays: Alfred Sutro's "A Marriage Has Been Arranged," "The Valiant" by Hall and Middlemass, and "The Witch" by Ferenc Molnar. Performance starts at 8.30 p. m. sharp.

The theatre will follow the policy which won for it so many friends last season, that is, the presentation of good plays interspersed with varied, special programs. Among the plays produced last summer were one-act plays by I. M. Barrie, Jerome K. Jerome, Emile Augier, and A. A. Milne. Included on the special programs were poetry recitals by Angela Morgan, internationally known poet; Ralph Cheyney and Lucia Trent, editors of "Contemporary Vision"; and a travel-talk by Samuel Fleisher, founder of the Philadelphia Graphic Sketch Club.

This season the theatre, under direction of Clyde Robinson, is augmented by a group of Temple University students of the drama, who have donated their services in the interests of the theatre's experiment. The acting and production staff consists of: Shirley Copeland, Kay Dealy, Ellen M. Eaves, Horace Elbertson, Margaret Eves, Walter H. Grindrod, William Lyndall, Alma McKensie, Della Shull, Morton Teosky, Ann Warrington, John S. Woodrow.

DOING GOOD WORK

The Department of Commerce serves a useful purpose as a governmental agency, especially in its foreign service designed to promote and help American trade. Like most governmental departments, it has undergone much expansion since its creation and some unessential features and functions probably were added.

The time has come to trim its costs, and the reorganization plans announced by Secretary Roper contemplate the dropping of 21 representatives abroad and the closing of a number of offices. This does not mean any important crippling of its service as the territories left without agents will be covered by representatives in nearby offices.

That business firms attach real value to the department's foreign service was shown in the replies received to a questionnaire sent them. Sixty-four per cent of those replying stated that they would be willing to pay an amount commensurate with the cost of the service rather than have the latter abandoned. A majority said they regarded commerce department agents abroad as more helpful and efficient than consular officials.

It is likely that these agents will fill a more important need in the not distant future, when world trade begins to revive, than they do now. The department meantime will continue its foreign service along the lines followed in the past, convinced that the work bears an important relation to the extension of American foreign trade.

That its service will not be seriously crippled by its organization will be good news to American firms that have profited by it in the past and will rely on it for help in the future.

PAY OR STAY OUT

The President's action in denying France a part in the war-debt conferences next month unless the French government first makes payments on its two defaulted installments was in line with the requirements of justice.

The conferences presumably will be for the purpose of reviewing the entire debt problem as between the United States and those of its debtors that have pursued the honorable course of paying in full or in part their obligations as they fell due. To give France, while a defaulter, equality of treatment with those who would not be fair to the latter.

France's refusal to pay was not because of her inability to pay. She has huge quantities of gold on hand. A selfish purpose actuated her. If she wishes to retain her honor she can do so by paying in full or partially her defaulted obligations. She then will qualify for participation in the conferences.

This conference represents a liberal attitude on the part of the United States, although it is questionable if France will so interpret it in view of the French government's general position on the debt problem. That, however, should be a matter of small concern to Washington.

But a crisis, alas! also develops. 10 million savers whose schemes are hokey.

You'll notice, however, that radical opinions aren't a menace if they belong to a millionaire.

Why not have a charge account for cash?

It's so convenient to get the money you need on just your own signature without endorser or security of any nature. Why be bothered with money troubles when you can so easily obtain the cash you require. The following table shows the average monthly cost of several amounts when repaid in 10 monthly payments.

$ 25 — 48 cents
$ 50 — 95 cents
$ 75 — $1.44
$100 — $1.93

You can repay in full at any time, thereby reducing total cost, or you may take up to 20 months, if you prefer.

SUMMER CORSETS IN LACE TRIM, GLOVE-TIGHT, BUT PLIABLE

By Alice Langelier

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS—(INS)—Women won't suffer this summer. Newest corsets can't boast a bone in 'em. They're softer than the finest glove and fit the body likewise.

For daytime and sports wear there are heavy satins made pliable by the encrustations of a very narrow gore of elastic. The "gaine," as the French call corsets nowadays, closes at the side and is arranged to leave a perfectly flat outline on the surface.

Fine silk batistes with lace tops come for evening, with a very low back chosen for the hooks. It is guaranteed to abolish all rolls and ugly lumps about the waist or elsewhere and one of Hollywood's favorites seems to think so too, for she has been seen selecting the very smartest variety just recently, and she wasn't wearing trousers either!

Numerous designs of the new boneless corset have been developed for all figures, some of which demand a bias cut in all of the sections and others an entire absence of trimming lace.

Over the "gaine" comes the slip which forms the actual foundation of all day and evening gowns. It is cleverly cut on the bias, pointed and seamed in such a manner that it clings firmly to the figure and yet gives with every movement of the wearer.

The same type is used for daytime in shorter lengths under lamage frocks and those of lighter fabrics. They are in the same tone as the dress.

WIDE GAUNTLETED FABRIC GLOVES ARE IN VOGUE JUST NOW

By Alice Langelier

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS—(INS)—The desire for something new in accessories is shown by the many new varieties of wide-gauntleted gloves for daytime wear and the great variety of fabrics for which they are made.

Chiffon for evening and organdie, plaid, spotted silks, string and other fabrics have already found many favorites.

Agnes is showing adorable little blue and white checked gingham gloves of the slip-on type to accompany a little bonnet and tie of the same practical and chic accessories of the day. The bonnet consists of a wide bias band that is caught into four flaps and the top so it fits the head snugly.

Red and white striped pique makes other gloves and Molyneux is showing them in a neat print, a black wheat-head pattern on white ground.

White organdie gloves are seen on many afternoon occasions, sometimes with lace for the gauntlet-cuff. Irish lace and plain mesh crochet hand-covering are also very smart and cool.

For very chic dress wear there are satin gloves to match or contrast with the hat and black silken mittens sometimes accompany chic black and white ensembles.

These short fingerless gloves for that is what they really are—the kind our grandmothers used to love, make a quaint impression in light green kid worn with a black silken gown showing a green felt belt to tone. They bring color too, when of red glaze kid, to match a belt on a pearl-beige silk dress.

An identical tone of deep red is mirrored in dyed shaved lamb trimmings for insertions in black coats and one model, half-length, for a cool summer days, is worn over a pearl-beige frock and has gloves and belt to tone.

GETS ROYAL PRAISE

DENVER—(INS)—Members of the Japanese royal family "praised the sweetness and flavor" of a box of oranges and grapefruit grown in Texas and sent to them by Dr. N. Kunitomo, Denver manufacturers' agent. Kunitomo recently received a letter from Prof. Hidio Katsura, speaking for the royal family, in which Japan's royalty expressed their thanks in courteous Japanese.

BOSTON—(INS)—Forbidden to appear in court wearing his hat, Hyman Bergstein, of Brookline, received permission from Superior Court Judge George James to go out and buy himself a wig. Bergstein, who was found not guilty of charges in connection with an automobile accident, is totally bald, 21, and a strapping six footer.

DENVER—Picturesque Yampa canyon, in northwestern Colorado, will be explored during the next few weeks by an expedition headed by Jean M. Dubois of Denver, noted explorer and leader of an expedition into Guiana a few years ago. The region, heretofore unexplored, is believed to be rich in zoological and botanical lore.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal.

One of Paramount's announcements has given Hollywood a chance to indulge in its favorite sport of reading between the lines.

Jack LaRue

Hollywood, was the change made? Was it due to the coolness that is reported to have developed between the star who walked out on "Story of Temple Drake" and the young actor who stepped in to take his place.

You couldn't get George or Jack to admit there even is a coolness. And, as for the studio, it points out that Helen Twelvetrees also is being substituted for Miriam Hopkins in the same story. It's all a matter of routine.

But that doesn't satisfy Hollywood. It prefers the more piquant interpretation.

Roland Young doesn't yet know how he came to say it—except that he had been trying to buy a piece of real estate and that there had been an annoying mixup about clearing it through the banks.

His subconscious mind must have been worrying about it when he called the hospital to ask about his friend's operation. For when the nurse told him that the patient had been out of the surgery for an hour, he asked:

"Well, is he out of the escrow yet?"

HOLLYWOOD PARADE.

An approaching wedding in the film colony will be that of Lenore Bushman and Dr. Karl Marxer. Close friends say they will take the vows either in the late summer or early fall. Lenore is one of the daughters of Francis X. Bushman. Her sister Virginia is married to Jack Conway, the director.

Wedding bells will ring soon for Mollie Britton and Alan Dinehart. They had planned to have a midnight ceremony on June 30, but Alan's picture work intervened. The scheduled Honolulu honeymoon will be postponed for a while, but the newlyweds plan to slip away for a few days anyway.

As for Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller, they can't take the romantic step, even if they want to, until October 11, when the Weissmuller-Bobbe Arnst decree is final.

Here's style news straight from Davis Banton, who designs clothes for the Paramount stars. Travis entertained the press at his home, where Adrienne Ames, Lilyan Tashman, Helen Vinson, Carole Lombard and Claudette Colbert manikined his new creations. They showed a definite trend towards romantic and dramatic effects. Long sweeping capes and trains. Even wider shoulder lines instead of the predicted narrow ones. And a return to flowers and bows. Several of the models featured capes of ostrich feathers. And with feather muffs to match. Sun-tanned shoulders were much in evidence, too. This is one style Hollywood refuses to give up.

Walter Winchell says that the leading role in the story he sold to Twentieth Century Pictures just fits George Raft. This is not a columnist story, incidentally.

Jean Harlow still goes every-where with Hal Rosson. Saw them at the Miramar Hotel Sunday night.

W. S. Van Dyke made it a three-some. . . . Helene Rosson and Nick Stuart were another film pair dancing to Jay Whidden's music. . . . Doris Warner and Mervyn Leroy and Marguerite Churchill and George O'Brien were together.

There is no use rumorizing a marriage between Merv and Doris for he is not divorced. . . . Jeanette Loff was with Ted Fiorito, who plans to spend a six weeks' vacation here. This dance spot is a new favorite.

DID YOU KNOW—

That Maurice Chevalier once worked in a French nail factory?

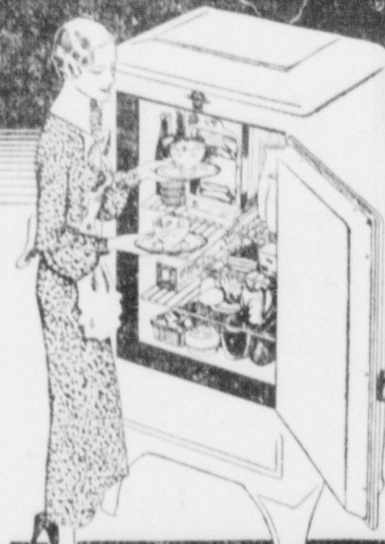

George O'Brien were together.

There is no use rumorizing a marriage between Merv and Doris for he is not divorced. . . . Jeanette Loff was with Ted Fiorito, who plans to spend a six weeks' vacation here. This dance spot is a new favorite.

Luckies
Please!

To my brothers... I owe the pleasure of smoking Luckies

When I first had a desire to smoke, I knew exactly where to start. You see, for years I had heard all the men in the family saying "Luckies Please." They said it was "Toasting" that made Luckies so good. I've never questioned the reason—because I have always found

Luckies so fragrant, so mild—and (perhaps a man will smile at this) so pure to my lips! I can smoke lots and lots of them and still find them refreshing to the taste. Now I'm telling my brothers "Luckies Please", and each of them says, "You're telling me?"

because "It's toasted"

CAPE, CAPELETS TO COMPLETE SMARTEST BATHING ENSEMBLES

By Alice Langeller
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—(INS)—After showing up on practically every variety of chic ensemble this spring, enuring little capes and capelets are counting on completing all the smartest sun and water bathing costumes this summer.

The continued popularity of backless evening styles is very much responsible for the changing views on the subject of sunbathing. A deep southern tan is not going to be as fashionable in this season's ballrooms, so it seems, with the result that capes and costumes to protect the back are becoming a big feature of the latest in beach wear.

Vera Heller and Aileen Rice are showing the cutest little knitted capes to accompany their smartest of all hand-knitted sun pyjamas. A very chic model comes with blue trousers not too wide, white blouse and a little red cape and cap to match. A deep cape in blue accompanies a white flannel beach skirt providing ample protection for the back and shoulders and a bolero version of the cape is worn with a pair of bell-bottomed trousers in white.

Beach pyjamas combine the feminine and masculine influence this season, with trousers strictly tailored a la Marlene and held with regulation belts, seen below tailored but exclusively feminine silk-back brassieres of the same fabric as the trousers. Even one of the little tailors which also has a cape shows only a brassiere beneath the red fish-net blouse.

One of the designers proposes short grey flannel trousers for active or spectator beach wear. They are also completed by capes or heat little cardigan jackets in contrasting colors. Bathing suits have separate shorts and deep bust bodices. Nearly all beach clothes are simple in line but bold in color this year.
